Nevada & Oregon Railroad.

Superintendent Holmes is pushing the work on the Nevada & Oregon as fast as possible. The Reno Gazette says he has 362 men at work and is using from 15 to 20 kegs of powder at each blast in the rock cuts. The company will pay off the Chinamen for June to-morrow. An engine is expected here next week, when the second five miles will be graded and ready for ties. Colonel Moore left New York this morning for Reno. They will build the next twenty miles within about sixty days. Judge Wheeler advocates building the line in the shortest possible time. When the next twenty miles is completed the company will have a handsome return to reward them for their energy and perseverance. It will cost no more to build it in sixty days than in six months, and the sooner the road is open the sooner it will begin to make money.

The APPEAL is indebted to Cagwin & Allen for the August number of the Harpers. It contains the usual number of readable sketches. "A Day in Africa" is profusely illustrated, but Carsonites yesterday were not obliged to read the story to get an idea of what such a day was.

PICTURES OF THE SCENE.

The Gravers Took More Lacerating Than the Assassin's Bullet.

After the first excitement of the shooting of the President is over comes the second shock of the great tragedy in the shape of an inundation of illustrated papers. If any one of them ever reaches the President's bedside surgery cannot save him. The artists and engravers of the cuts tread respectively the paths of the mawkish, ludicrous and horrible. One where Mrs. Garfield is receiving the news from General Grant would make anybody laugh if the same cut was transferred to a comic paper. It seems to represent a cruel father telling his extravagant daughter that he has cancelled her order for an $800 ball dress, the girl governing herself accordingly. Another cut represents Blaine lying on the breast of the prostrate President and sobbing bitterly while the doctors stand round with their watches in hand as if counting the sobs per minute. The flash illustrated weeklies seem to have drawn wholly on their imagination for the sensational details and picture the wounded President swimming in his own gore. Then comes a collar and elbow match between Blaine and Guitteau, but it is hard to tell the men apart or which has the best of it. The drawings made from "accurate photographs" of the scene all represent a different style of bedstead and furniture, from which people are led to believe that the sick man was given a new room every half hour. When the President gets well it will not be surprising if he puts these artists all on a reservation somewhere in Dakota with a hard hearted agent to starve and freeze them.

A Card From Tracy.

RENO, Nevada, July 14, 1881.
EDITOR APPEAL—Dear Sir: The correspondent who takes exceptions to the rulings of the Board of Pardons is very much mistaken in regards to Tracy. I served 8 years so help my God for a robbery I never committed. My actions and future life hereafter will make the writer of that article very much mistaken.

In regards to the blind man, I am very sorry he was not pardoned. I return a life long thanks to the Board of Pardons for giving me my liberty. I will never do a act that will cause one of them to regret their kindness to me.

Your humble servt.

BOB TRACY.

Severely Injured.

Yesterday morning about ten o'clock, a nine year old son of Dan Corbett, was thrown out of a wagon on Fourth street, near Gov. Adam's house, and so severely injured that he was taken home insensible. It appears that the horse he was driving took fright and ran until the wagon collided with a tree, throwing young Corbett over the wheel. The boy sustained severe bruises about the head and face, and also had his shoulder lacerated. At last accounts he was doing well.

The Resumption of Coinage.

In answer to a letter recently sent to Washington by Superintendent Crawford, soliciting authority to resume coinage operations at the Mint on the first of August, Director of the Mint Burchard writes that the stock of bullion on hand is not great enough to justify his authorization to resume active work until October or November, when, he believes, sufficient silver will have accumulated to continue full coinage operations, without interruption, during the winter months.

Around the World.

Rev. Mr. Willis of this place and his brother, of Winnemucca, also a Methodist minister, contemplate a trip around the world, leaving here in October. They will go to San Francisco and then to Japan, China, India, Palestine, Greece, Italy, through the interior of Europe, thence to France, England, Scotland, and Ireland, after which they will sail for New York. The trip will occupy them about fifteen months.

McDonall's soda fountain attracts the thirsty during this sultry weather as a bowl of brown sugar would call in the flies. His syrups are the pure fruit extract, and his cooling apparatus and generators are of an improved method, which insure against harm from drinking the soda.

A CELESTIAL NOTE.

The Commotion It Caused in Judge Cary's Court Yesterday.

Yesterday morning Judge Cary rather more than earned his salary by wrestling with a Chinese case in which a mortgage on a promissory note was involved. Under ordinary circumstances where a case of this kind is tried in English the Court and attorneys find matters in a state of chaos anything but easy to understand. Imagine the whole matter put into the Chinese language and some idea can be gained of how the Court perpled hearing the testimony. Joe Dealy, an Americanized Chinaman sued Tom Kit, a Chinese original for $35, borrowed money. The note, which was in Chinese, stipulated that it was to run three weeks at five percent a week, secured by a mortgage on a ranch, a cart and a harness.

The Court—So you borrowed thirty-five dollars and gave your note, did you?

The man addressed reflected a moment and shook his head.

The Court—What security did you give?

No answer.

"Do you speak English?"

"Yes."

"Then why don't you tell me what security you gave?"

Here the Chinaman sprang up and quite excitedly replied: "Me no give squirty; me give money. Him man there he gettee my money; now I come to catchem back."

"Thought you were the defendant," said the Judge, as the spectators smiled.

Two interpreters were in the case, but whether they lied, or the witnesses, was more than the Court could tell. No two seemed to swear alike on anything, and after the hearing the Court begged to be allowed until Monday to give a decision.

Free Advertising.

CARSON, July 16th.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE APPEAL:

I write to say that there is one paper in this city in which I do not advertise because I had the right to advertise where I please. The paper is running my advertisement wholly unauthorized and I am informed is running others in the same way. I presume before long a bill will come round, or perhaps the proprietor wishes to give me a gratuitous lift. Unless my advertisement is taken out I shall soon be somewhat more explicit than now.

Yours,

A BUSINESS MAN.

The author of the above is the victim of a very common grievance. No man likes to see his advertisement in a paper when he has not authorized it. It is generally not as he would have worded it if he had authorized it, and if he suggests any change it is equal to acquiescing to its insertion. Beside this he continually feels that he may be asked to pay for it. Publishers who run free advertisements for a few months will presently find that it is almost impossible to get any paying ones. It materially lessens the standard of the business. The APPEAL, however, cannot assist anybody in such matters. If a business man sees his advertisement run in a paper which he dislikes to patronize, or even to have people suppose he patronizes, he has no remedy. Such a thing cannot injure him in any way, and the best thing to do is to pay no attention to it. When Barnum kept publicly announcing, "This museum does not advertise in the New York Herald," he advertised the Herald as much as he did his show.

Found the Money.

Last spring P. Shea, of Jordan valley, had his wagon which contained most of his household goods and $5,000 in coin, upset while crossing the Owyhee river, where the water was deep and the current strong. Nearly all the articles which the wagon contained, with the exception of the coin, were recovered, at the time of the accident. Search for the coin proved futile, and Mr. Shea sold his interest in it to outsiders for $2,500. The purchasers attempted to throw the greater part of the stream into a new channel, but did not succeed. The Silver State is informed that last week, while they were searching for the coin in the stream, one of them accidentally got his foot between two large boulders, and there found the lost treasure, securely tied in a sack. This is the first instance on record where a person ever made $5,000 by "putting his foot in it."

IN BRIEF.

An assessment of fifty cents per share has been called for the Gould & Curry Company.

Surveyor General Hatch leaves in a few days for a business trip to Washington, D. C.

And now comes a man from high up in the Sierra's who says he saw the comet on the 18th.

Doc. Benton is bottling and shipping about 5,000 bottles of Glen Alpine Mineral Water per week.

The Eureka Con. Mining Company has declared a dividend of fifty cents per share on their capital stock.

The Tribune takes the Supreme Court to task on its Latin and the Sentinel and Leader look after the dead language in Eureka.

The story that Hank Monk shed tears at the Hazel Kirke show he pronounces as a pure invention of the enemy.

The APPEAL acknowledges the receipt of a string of trout from Geo. Davis caught in Hope Valley. Small, but well flavored.

It is never too late to mend, but it is always too early to begin stitching so long as you can get new clothes from the tailor on credit.

To-day is the last monthly practice for the Carson Guards. The silver pitcher will be the first prize shot for and the three company's prizes of $10 coin each follow.

The comet is leaving us at the rate of 3,000,000 miles a day. Any packages or bundles that the ladies wish the comet to carry should be packed without delay.

Fannie Ogden, a woman who formerly resided in this city, and who was engaged in a lamp throwing contest with another woman at Woodland, Cal., some months ago, has since died from her injuries.

"That Beautiful Wretch," by William Black, is out, bound in a complete number. Had the author been half as skillful as the illustrating artist the story would have been better worth the reading.

The conjunction of two political planets the other day near Reno is creating some excitement in Washoe and Ormsby county. The little one was not able apparently to deflect the orbit of the other.

Fish Commissioner Parker recently caught a number of carp and cat fish in Walker Lake. The carp were quite large and the cat fish which are very sturdy can now be seen in a glass tank at Fox's. The young fish were placed in the lake about two years ago.

A Villainous Attempt at Poisoning.

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 15.

Alfred Stagg has been arrested on a charge of felony of the most atrocious nature. It seems that Stagg came to the ranch of J. M. Owen, at Coyote station, two weeks ago, for work, which he obtained, being employed in Owen's dairy. Saturday he became engaged in a quarrel with a fellow-employee, Irving Isham, whom he attacked with a hammer. A fight was prevented, but Stagg declared that he would kill Isham if he had to poison him. A number of men employed in the dairy are boarded by Owen. The milk used by them, as also by Owen's family, is taken from a large vat where the daily yield of sixty gallons is poured. Yesterday morning at breakfast the men who used the milk in their coffee noticed a very bitter taste, which they complained of. The Chinese cook, finding the fault in the milk, gave some of it to two dogs, both of which died in a few minutes. A quantity of milk from the vat was then brought to San Jose, where Dr. Caldwell analyzed it, finding strychnine in it. The suspicion at once fell on Stagg, who was arrested on complaint of Owen late last night. He will be arraigned to-morrow.

Out of Danger.

WASHINGTON, July 16. — "Doctor, when are you going to announce officially that the President is out of danger?" was asked Dr. Bliss to-day.

"There are some unforeseen accidents which may occur, and there is no reason for deceiving the public. That is why we will not say that he is entirely out of danger. He is becoming so right along, but that is no reason why we should proclaim that he is totally out of danger."

"But he is a pretty safe man," said Dr. Barnes to a similar question. "The people should be governed by the facts. There is no reason except the possibility of accident why it could not be said the President is out of danger."

Wood River Smelters.

Day before yesterday three Storey county gentlemen left here for Wood River. They represent considerable capital and their intention is to build smelting furnace all through the Wood River country. Their base of operations will be Bellevue. Just now it costs from $50 to $70 per ton to haul the rock to the furnaces in Utah, and this tax is so great that but few can realize on it. The gentlemen think with furnaces on the ground they can get all the work and do it as cheaply as the Salt Lake manipulators. They have taken experienced amalgamators and mill men with them. The news from the new district continues conflicting, but many have strong faith in its ultimate success.

Vucanovich.

When the fruit season opens in California it also makes its appearance in Carson through the medium of the wide awake Vucanovich, who places on the Carson market every conceivable thing that the palate craves, from a strawberry to a pine apple. In the way of nuts, candies and fresh vegetables he is in the front rank as usual. His prices are low and his wares fresh. my3-1m
